The Canola Council is a full value chain agriculture industry association to encompass all links in the canola value chain. Our members include canola growers, life science companies, grain handling companies, exporters, processors, as well as food and feed manufacturers. All sit at the same table to develop a common platform for growth. Our mission is to advance the growth and profitability of the canola industry based on innovation, sustainability, resilience and the creation of superior value for a healthier world. Our goal is to ensure the industry's continued growth, demand, stability and success – achieving 52 bu/acre and 26 MMT by the year 2025.

There are two categories of membership available with the CCC. Membership benefits include:

Regular Membership

- Participation in full activity of the Council, including voting at the CCC AGM.
- Opportunity to be nominated to the board, participation on ad-hoc and standing committees.
- Receiving our bi-weekly Member Update email – a snapshot of key developments in the canola sector and Canola Council of Canada activities in support of industry objectives. If there's anyone within your organization that would like to receive this, we can add them to our distribution list.
- Profiling company logo and a link to your website on the canolacouncil.org member page, showing your support for the value chain.
- A subscription to Canola Digest magazine, which includes five annual editions and covers industry activities and updates including agronomy activities, marketing, trade, innovation, research and outlooks.
- Company listed in the industry contacts section of the CCC website.

Regular members are required to be core funders according to the funding models in place for each of the major categories of the value chain. Regular members must also be approved by Canola Council Governance Committee.
